INHERENT INVESTMENT RISK

Protaker Finance companies invest in equities listed on the American Securities Exchange.

Equity investments represent well over 90% of the Firm’s total assets. These equity investments are not subject to market risk as the market value of investments fluctuate overtime. The objective of market risk management is to manage and control market risk exposures within acceptable parameters, whilst seeking to optimize the return to shareholders and active investors.

The investment portfolio is spread over a large number of entities operating in a number of market segments so as to reduce the market risk of a fall in value of a particular investment or an economic decline in a market segment.

The Firm holds equity investments for the long term and does not act as a share trader nor does it invest in speculative stocks.

INVESTMENT IDEAS AND OPPORTUNITIES

Investment opportunities emerge from close examination of industry trends. These developments may include economic, political or legislative changes that impact the structure and competitive environment in which a company operates. Investors in many instances are slow to identify and price these changes.

The best investment ideas present a unique view, are relevant to the value of the business and are not currently reflected in the share price.

QUALITATIVE REVIEW

Once a suitable investment opportunity has been identified, a full review of financial performance will be completed. This is usually followed by a meeting with management to further develop an understanding of the business and the management philosophy. Where possible, members of the investment team will also meet with suppliers, regulators, competitors and customers to gauge the competitive
